Siege et Survie is a story about a man and his cat during the Siege of Paris in the Franco-Prussian War. The cat's name is Chanceux, and he is no ordinary cat. He is smarter than most of his kind and can do things other cats can't do. Chanceux finds a new friend in Hugo. There is a mutually beneficial relationship. The cat catches food for the man. The man grooms and protects the cat. All goes well until the food runs out. Is their bond strong enough to survive?

Author Joseph Bebo lives in Hudson, MA, with his wife Kathy. His sixteen books reflect his varied background, in music, the martial arts, and computer programming, as well as his love of history and science.
